

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Leszek Augustyn – philosopher and religious scholar, Associate Professor at the Institute of Philosophy of the Jagiellonian University. Fields of his research interest are: history of ideas, philosophy of religion, Russian philosophy and Polish philosophy.

Janusz Dobieszewski – professor at University of Warsaw. He teaches at the Institute of Philosophy. His research focuses on history of philosophy, social philosophy and the philosophy of religion. His field of expertise is Russian philosophy. Professor Dobieszewski has published numerous books, including: Vladimir Solovyov: A Study of a Philosophical Personality (2002), The Absolute and History: Studies in Russian Thought (2012), Ideas in Russia, vol. 8, 9 (editor, 2014, 2015), Synthesis and Nuances. Studies and Sketches from Russian Philosophy (2019).

Igor I. Evlampiev – professor in the Department of Russian Philosophy and Culture at the Institute of Philosophy at St. Petersburg State University. His research interests include the history of philosophy and the philosophy of culture. His monographs (in Russian) are: Divine and Human in the Philosophy of Ivan Ilyin (1998), History of Russian Metaphysics in the 19th and 20th Centuries (2000); The Aesthetic Philosophy of Andrei Tarkovsky (2001; 2nd ed. – 2012); History of Russian Philosophy (2002; 2nd ed. – 2014), Philosophy of Man in the Creativity of F. Dostoevsky (2012); Political Philosophy of B. N. Chicherin (2013); Russian Philosophy in European Context (2017) and others.

Dorota Jewdokimow – associate professor at Adam Mickiewicz University in Poznań since 2006. She works at Cultural Studies Institute, where her research focuses on Russian literature, philosophical, religious and social thoughts of XIX and XX centuries and semiotics of history. She carried out research and collaborated with Dostoyevsky Museum in Saint Petersburg, St. Sergius Orthodox Theological Institute in Paris. She is the author of monographs: Human Changed. Fyodor M. Dostoyevsky toward Orthodox Church Tradition (Poznań 2009), with Karolina Kizińska: Cultural Theory and History: Sign and Context (Poznań 2014), On the Tangent. Idea of Unity of Churches in Russian Thoughts (Poznań 2017).

Marek Jedliński – PhD, Department of Philosophy (UAM, Poznań). Author: Ku przeszłości! René Guénon, Julius Evola i nurty tradycjonalizmu [Back to the Past! René Guénon, Julius Evola and Trends of Traditionalism] (2019), Obcości. Szkice z filozofii i literatury [The Otherness. Essays on Philosophy and Literature] (with K. Witczak, 2017), Rosyjskie poszukiwania sensu i celu... Myśl historiozoficzna Iwana Kiriejewskiego, Aleksego Chomiakowa i Piotra Czaadajewa [Russian Search of Meaning and End... Historisophy of Ivan Kireyevsky, Aleksey Khomyakov and Petr Chaadayev] (2015).

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Vladimir Kantor – philosopher and writer, professor at National Research University Higher School of Economics in Moscow. His work focuses on Russian culture and intellectual history. Among his works are: Russian Aesthetics of the Second Half of the Nineteenth Century and the Social Struggle (1978), Phenomenon of the European Russia (1999), Saint Petersburg: Russian Empire against the Russian Chaos. The Problem of the Imperial Consciousness in Russia (2008) Between Arbitrariness and Freedom. To the Problem of the Russian Mentality (2013) and Demythologization of Russian Culture. Philosophical Essays (2019).

Katarzyna Krempleska – PHD in philosophy, assistant professor at the Institute of Philosophy and Sociology, Polish Academy of Sciences. Her research areas include: philosophy of subject and human self, philosophy of life, history of ideas, history of American philosophy. Author of the book Life as Insinuation: George Santayana's Hermeneutics of Finite Life and Human Self (SUNY Press, 2019).

Marcin Król – political philosopher and historian of ideas. The founder and editor of the journal Res Publica and subsequently Res Publica Nowa. The author of many academic publications on the tradition of liberal and conservative thought as well as on political ideas in Poland including: Józef Piłsudski. Ewolucja myśli politycznej (1981) [Józef Piłsudski. The evolution of political thought], Konserwatyści a niepodległość. Studia nad polską myślą konserwatywną XIX wieku (1985) [Conservatives and Independence. Studies into 19th-century Polish Conservative Thought], Liberalizm strachu czy liberalizm odwagi (1996) [The Liberalism of Fear or the Liberalism of Courage], Bezradność liberalistów. Myśl liberalna wobec konfliktu i wojny (2005) [The Helplessness of the Liberals. Liberal Thought in Relation to Conflict and War], Czego nas uczy Leszek Kołakowski (2010) [What Leszek Kołakowski Taught Us], Europa w obliczu końca (2012) [Europe in the Face of Crisis].

Inga Matveeva an associate Professor of the Department of literature and art of the Russian State Institute of Performing Arts (Saint Petersburg). Her research interests include the history of Russian literature, philosophy and culture, works of Leo Nikolayevich Tolstoy and Fiodor Mikhailovich. Dostoevsky.

Sławomir Mazurek – philosopher and historian of ideas, Associate Professor at the Institute of Philosophy and Sociology of the Polish Academy of Sciences. His primary focus is Russian philosophy, he is the author of several books about the Russian Religious Renaissance, including: Wątki katastroficzne w myśli rosyjskiej i polskiej 1917-1950 [Catastrophic Themes in Russian and Polish Thought from 1917 to 1950] (1997); Utopia i łaska. Idea rewolucji moralnej w rosyjskiej filozofii i religijnej [Utopia and Grace: the Idea of Moral Revolution in Russian Religious Thought] (2006), Rosyjski renesans religijnofilozoficzny. Próba syntezy [The Russian Philosophical- Religious Renaissance: an Attempt at Synthesis] (2008).

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Jacek Migasiński – professor of history of philosophy at the University of Warsaw, translator. His works concern modern philosophy and French phenomenology.

Marci Shore – associate professor of history at Yale University and, since 2014, regularly a visiting fellow at the Institut für die Wissenschaften vom Menschen in Vienna. She is the translator of Michał Głowiński's The Black Seasons and the author of Caviar and Ashes: A Warsaw Generation's Life and Death in Marxism, 1918-1968 (2006), The Taste of Ashes: The Afterlife of Totalitarianism in Eastern Europe (2013), and The Ukrainian Night: An Intimate History of Revolution (2017). In 2018 she received a Guggenheim Fellowship for her current project titled 'Phenomenological Encounters: Scenes from Central Europe'.

Szymon Wróbel – professor of philosophy at the Faculty of Artes Liberales of the University of Warsaw and at the Institute of Philosophy and Sociology of the Polish Academy of Sciences. He is the author of numerous books and articles scattered in various scientific journals. His books in English include: Deferring the Self (2013), The Animals in Us – We in Animal (2014) and Grammar and Glamor of Cooperation (2015). In Polish: Ćwiczenia z przyjaźni (2012), Lektury retroaktywne (2014), Polska pozycja depresyjna (2015) and Filozof i terytorium (2016). His last book Atheism Revisited. Rethinking Modernity and Inventing New Modes of Life will be published by Palgrave Macmillan in 2020. Currently he is the head of the experimental Laboratory of Techno-Humanities at the Faculty of Artes Liberales.