

CONTENTS OF THE FASCICLE

Page

I. TREATISES AND ARTICLES

1. Ewa Cybulska-Bohuszewicz, Perverse Core of “Dominican Meditations” . . . . . 5
2. Jarosław Nowaszczuk, Renaissance Bishops Epitaphs . . . . . 25
3. Roman Krzywy, A Description of Istanbul in Samuel Twardowski’s “Important Mission” and the Topoi of Laudatio Urbis . . . . . 41
4. Radosław Rusnak, Four Old-Polish Versions of Seneca’s Song „Quis Vos Exagitat Furor” . . . . . 59
5. Jean Ward, “Garlic and sapphires in the mud”. English Poetry and the Term “Baroque” . . . . . 81
6. Wiesław Pusz, Classical-Sentimental Epoch’s Warm Riversides. Generalisations and Resemblance . . . . . 99
7. Piotr Żbikowski, Theatre and the Beginnings of Theatre Criticism in Poland . . . . . 107

Problems of Artistic Language

8. Teresa Banaś-Korniak, Expression of Silence in Jan Kochanowski’s “Laments”. A Gloss to the Study on the Rhetorical Construction of the Poem . . . . . 141

II. MATERIALS AND NOTES

1. Grzegorz Trościński, “Dying Man’s Complaint” – a Bernardine Manuscript From Sandomierz Diocesan Library . . . . . 151
2. Anna Kochan, Andrzej Zbylitowski’s Lost “History of St. Genevieve”. Remarks and Assumptions . . . . . 165
3. Aleksandra Oszczęda, From a Chronicle to a Silva. On the Problems of Manuscript and Print at the Beginning of 17c. Part 1: Marcin Paszkowski’s Song on the Conquest of Smoleńsk. Notes on Authorship and Migrations of the Text . . . . . 175
4. Edward Różycki, “A Story of a Duchess and a Cobbler’s Wife” – an Unknown Old-Polish Manners and Social Satire . . . . . 181
5. Artur Ziontek, Michał Kazimierz Ogiński as a Poet. The Cannon of Texts and Attribution Problems . . . . . 199
6. Paweł Kaczyński, Communication Problems or How Not to Talk to Rulers. Unpublished Tomasz Kajetan Węgierski’s Letters to Stanisław August . . . . . 221
7. Michał Łuczyński, Sarmatian and Demons. A Picture of Folk Demonology in Polish Pre-Romantic Literature . . . . . 229

III. REVIEWS AND SURVEYS